(ANSAMed) – Naples, NOV. 27th – The “Federazione Anna Lindh Italia Onlus” expands and joins the “Carta di Venezia”. In the World Day against Violence on Women, the Federation, founded in 2016 with a view to promote, support and implement cultural and social interaction between Italy and the Euro-Mediterranean Countries, decided to take the field to support the Carta di Venezia, the Manifesto of Women and Men Journalists for gender respect and equality in information against discrimination through words and images. The “Federazione Anna Lindh Italia” continues thus its actions in favour of women’s and the young’s rights particularly aimed to give them back hope and confidence.

This year the Federation promoted various events among which “Kimiyya, women as players in the dialogue”, organized in Naples with some 150 representatives of 12 national networks. The organization includes the early group formed by the founders - in 2004 - of the Italian Network of the “Fondazione Anna Lindh” which represent, as a group of networks, over 1,000 organizations sharing the aims of the Federation. Their activity, characterized by concrete and useful actions in favour of the common good and the real needs of people, has been acknowledged with official resolutions by States, Regions and Institutions of the main Euro-Mediterranean Countries, officially representing over 400,000,000 citizens.
