EUROMED: CERIMONIA PREMI DIALOGO ANNA LINDH 26/11 AL CAIRO (ANSAMed) - ALESSANDRIA (EGITTO), 20 NOV - I vincitori del Premio Euro-Med per il dialogo tra le culture saranno premiati il 26 novembre prossimo al Cairo in una cerimonia che intende onorare i loro successi e il loro impegno a favore dell'uguaglianza di genere, che è anche il tema di questa edizione del premio, 'Donne e uomini mano nella mano per l'uguaglianza di genere. I due vincitori ex aequo, comunica la Fondazione Anna Lindh in una nota, sono Rodi Kratsa Tsagaropoulou, primo vice presidente del Parlamento europeo e vice presidente del Comitato ad hoc per i diritti delle donne nell'Assemblea parlamentare euro-mediterranea, e Jan Willems, direttore artistico e programme designer della Theatre Days Production. La Cerimonia di premiazione si svolgerà nell'ambito dell'incontro annuale Sixth Heads of National Network, in programma al Cairo dal 26 al 28 novembre. L'incontro riunisce i coordinatori delle reti nazionali della Fondazione Anna Lindh, al fine di mettere a punto la fase 2008-2010 della Fondazione, soprattutto in vista del lancio della Campagna culturale '1001 Azioni per il dialogo', per celebrare l'anno europeo del dialogo interculturale. La cerimonia sarà presentata dalla star egiziana Samir Sabry, e vedrà la partecipazione di numerosi intellettuali e politici, dei direttori delle 37 reti nazionali Euro-Med, oltre a figure prominenti di organizzazioni internazionali che si occupano di differenze di genere.
